Consolidation in China's crowded solar power sector is pushing smaller players out of the market, but excess production capacity - with more on the way - threatens to keep global prices low...

In 2022, China's total installed solar capacity reached 264 GW, an increase of 30 GW from the previous year. The majority of this capacity is from utility-scale solar power plants, with the remainder coming from distributed solar systems.

Only 5 MW of solar energy was installed in China that year, however, as most of the manufactured photovoltaic cells were sold to European countries, with Germany being the largest buyer. China's annual solar energy installations grew to 10 MW installed in 2006, increasing China's total installed solar energy capacity to 80 MW. [18]
