

What happened to the battery company in Buenos Aires

Where will lithium batteries be made in Buenos Aires?

State company Y-TEC, the tech arm of YPF, will open the first lithium battery cell factory in September, in La Plata, the capital of Buenos Aires province. Another plant, five times bigger, will kick off in Santiago del Estero in 2024.

Can Argentina start a battery industry?

The bill to develop the value chain of lithium and batteries, as it reads on the draft, hopes that Argentina can start by joining the industrialization of a few elements, such as cathodes and battery cells, and only then start producing batteries in the mid-term.

How many people can a lithium battery power Buenos Aires?

The plant will generate 15 megawatts per year, which means it will produce lithium batteries capable of powering 2500 households. The batteries are envisaged for use in rural areas. For example, there is already a Buenos Aires province-backed project to supply the Paulino-Berisso island, home to 70 families who are currently off the power grid.

Will Argentine send lithium batteries to Argentina?

In 2022, the Argentine government announced a plan to send lithium batteries produced at UniLib-- a joint venture between state-owned oil company Yacimientos Petrolíferos Fiscales (YPF), the National University of La Plata (UNLP), and the National Scientific and Technical Research Council -- to the island.

Will Chinese battery maker buy Argentina brine deposits?

Chinese battery-component maker looking to buy major stakes in Argentina brine deposits to extend its foray into the lithium-rich region.

Will a new Lithium Project churn out in Argentina?

Four new projects will finally begin to churn out lithium in the weeks and months ahead, according to a yet-to-be released federal government time-line seen by Bloomberg News. That will almost double production capacity in Argentina, whose growth potential has long lured the attention of battery makers around the world.

Owned by Chinese corporation Ganfeng and Canada's Lithium Americas, the company's kickoff means Argentina now has three operational lithium fields. Exar's project, ...

The majority-state-owned company Y-TEC is set to open its first industrial-scale lithium battery plant in the city of La Plata, in Buenos Aires province. The facility arrives after several years of research and US$10 million of investment that allowed the company to carry out laboratory work and first test the feasibility of the project at a ...

What happened to the battery company in Buenos Aires

CNGR Advanced Material Co, a Chinese battery-component maker and Tesla Inc supplier, is looking to buy major stakes in Argentina brine deposits to extend its foray into the lithium-rich region as it builds its own supply chain outside the Asian nation.

Home to over 14 million porteños, the Area Metropolitana de Buenos Aires capital is home to the first metro system in Latin America. The first line of the Subte opened in 1913 and the system remained the backbone of a comprehensive mobility system also featuring a wide-reaching BRT system linking the core city with the outskirts and fringes of the ...

In 2022, the Argentine government announced a plan to send lithium batteries produced at UniLib -- a joint venture between state-owned oil company Yacimientos Petrolíferos Fiscales (YPF), the National University of La Plata (UNLP), and the National Scientific and Technical Research Council -- to the island. The batteries were meant to power ...

Now, with Argentina emerging as the fastest-growing producer of lithium needed for the global shift to electric energy, they're working on innovations to convert the battery metal into something scarcer than gold: lithium-6 isotopes that have key nuclear applications.

Police in Argentina have spoken out following the tragic death of former One Direction star Liam Payne. Cops were called to the scene after reports of an "aggressive man".

Buenos Aires terminal receives certification for Neo-Panamax ships Container News 13:51 Mon, 16 Dec Container News 13:51 Mon, 16 Dec Neo-Panamax Argentina Latin America All sources Private Bombardier jet crashes into buildings after veering off ...

Discover the best experiences and things to do in Buenos Aires, Argentina, from seeing Eva Perón's final resting place to attending a dinner and tango show.

Lithium start-ups bet on high demand in battery-powered future. 30-08-2024 11:33 Despite oversupply today, novel lithium extraction techniques will be key to the energy transition even as companies struggle with cost competitiveness.

Buenos Aires -- YPF Tec, the technology arm of Argentina's majority state-owned energy company YPF (YPF), has announced that its lithium battery factory will begin operations in April, and that it has struck a deal with mining company Livent, which will supply it with the lithium to produce the battery cells.

A review of the process and the results of privatizing the state's water and sanitation company reveals the dangers involved in shifting responsibility for public services, which ostensibly serve the public interest, to private companies whose mandate is maximizing profit. Due to the sheer number of people affected by the water concession in the metropolitan area of Greater Buenos ...

What happened to the battery company in Buenos Aires

They didn't find much. Police shows what they seized after the 2022 raid against the Buenos Aires Yoga School. From X. On December 7, the 2 nd Chamber of the National Court of Appeals for Criminal and Correctional Matters of Argentina (hereinafter "Court of Appeals") annulled the elevation to trial of the defendants in the Buenos Aires Yoga School ...

Buenos Aires -- YPF Tec, the technology arm of Argentina's majority state-owned energy company YPF (YPF), has announced that its lithium battery factory will begin operations in April, and that it has struck a deal with ...

The bill to develop the value chain of lithium and batteries, as it reads on the draft, hopes that Argentina can start by joining the industrialization of a few elements, such as cathodes and battery cells, and only then start producing batteries in the mid-term.

In 2022, the Argentine government announced a plan to send lithium batteries produced at UniLib -- a joint venture between state-owned oil company Yacimientos Petrolíferos Fiscales (YPF), the National University of ...

Web: <https://degotec.fr>